BACKGAMMON

By JERRY NATHAN
Advanced level

White to play 2-2

In money games (but not in tournament matches) players may agree to use the Jacoby Rule, which scores gammons and backgammons as double and triple only when the doubling cube no longer is in the center.

Surely White had to use one of his 2s to hit on the 9-point. With the Jacoby Rule in force he would cube on his next turn no matter how he had played the rest of his roll Black was almost sure to drop unless he had rolled spectacularly from the bar.

Instead of giving Black two ways to roll 5-3 and make the 5-point, White decided to hit the second blot with two men from his 4-point, playing his last 2 from the 9-point to the bar point. Black fanned with two men on the bar and dropped White's cube.

Without Jacoby, or with the cube already in Black's possession, White's play would have been reasonable. But with no way to score a gammon premium, White might better have hit with two checkers on the 9-point, bouncing with both to the bar point.

By hitting both men, White also gave Black two recovery rolls — double 5, a winning throw — and double 4 which would justify a take in view of Black's favorable race position.

On the other hand, the recommended move — hitting on the 9-point and proceeding with two men to the bar point — would prevent 5-5 from being a "killer roll". Furthermore, if Black were to accept the cube, White would have an effective block of the man or men on the 2-point and a safer position for entering his home table without having to leave blots.

Nathan's Notes

Winners of recent LaHacienda tournaments were: Marty Storer, Bruce Brown and Barry Davis (tied for first and second), and Jeff Whitelaw. In second place were Gary Griffin and Jerry Nathan. In third place were Bruce Brown (twice) and Alan Fenster.

We would welcome any USA backgammoners who happen to be heading for New Zealand. A telephone call on arrival to myself at Wellington 728-500 (business) or 793-974 (private) would obtain details of clubs and meeting nights which could be suitable. The standard of play down here isn't too bad and we believe we can provide worthy opponents. Perhaps a paragraph or two in the Backgammon Guide to let travellers know of us would be a good idea, if it can be arranged.

ACKGAMMON

ROBLEM

by Lewis Deyong

Excerpt from his «Philip Morris International Backgammon Book.»

The illustration shows a position where Black is a big favorite to win. In fact his only way of losing is to give a shot later and get hit. Even so, every player knows from bitter experience how often an unfortunate series of numbers can force Black to leave a blot in spite of the best and safest bearing off.

There is no foolproof method of bearing off safely, but one defensive tactic with rolls such as Black's 4-2 (above) will help considerably. The correct play for Black is to cover his own bar point without hitting White's open blot. Black should let White continue to move and the reason is simple.

O = BLACK
X = WHITE

(O rolls 4-2)
(Don't cut off a Fleeing Army)

White's timing is not good. Eventually, he must start to break up his board, and the more he moves, the quicker the end will come to his last defensive threat — a strong inner board. By declining the hit, Black obliges White to keep moving and soon his board will weaken.

Certainly Black would increase his chances of winning a double game by hitting, but with four enemy men trapped on his one-point he should win a gammon anyway; and the recommended play goes a long way toward insuring a definite win. If White does hit after his inner board has broken up, Black is still a big favorite to win.

Backgammon is not a game where such insurance can be overlooked!

DON'T GET SHUT OUT!

BACKGAMMON FOR PROFIT.

by Joe Dwek
(Extract from his book published by Weidenfeld & Nicholson)
PROBLEM
Should X double?

The answer is no, for three reasons:
1. X is stripped of builders in his outer board and is quite likely to give at least one or two double shots before he brings all those men home.

- O has perfect timing to make and maintain a strong inner board position should he hit X.
- There is no 'added' bonus to doubling as the double game possibilities are very remote.

A double in this position screams for a "beaver". A beaver is a refinement in the art of doubling. While beavers are never played in tournament backgammon, their use in other games is increasing rapidly. The beaver is explained very simply. If you think your opponent has given a poor double (let us assume from 1 to 2) under the beaver rule you have the right to turn the cube from 2 to 4 and keep it on your side provided you do so before your opponent rolls his number. The beaver, apart from being a furry rodent, is a powerful weapon to use against the premature doubler. If you are given an early double from 1 to 2 by beaver you increase the stake to 4 but still retain the advantage of having the cube on your side. Obviously you should beaver whenever you think that you have been doubled in an even position or one where you have the advantage.

Wilbur Brewton, attorney-lobbyist for Calder Race Course, walked into Gov. Bob Graham's office in Tallahassee at 11:20 a.m. Wednesday with a pari-mutuel package bill in his hand and said:

"Governor, Calder opens at 1 p.m. We would appreciate it if you would sign this bill."

By 11:23 a.m., Gov. Graham had signed the bill that Calder President Kenny Noe Jr. now says will increase purses by nearly $2 million at the 122-day summer meeting that began Wednesday.

The legislation, passed overwhelmingly Monday in the Senate and Tuesday in the House, boosts the takeout from a bettor's dollar from 20 percent to 23 percent on the daily double, perfectas and trifectas. The takeout on straight betting remains at 20 percent.
